THE PIE SECRET

"Easy as pie." What an odd saying. Because, honestly, pie baking does have a reputation of being just the opposite. It brought me practically to tears the first time I tried it.

And I love the stuff. As a kid, I was such a fan of my mom's fruit pies that I often requested birthday pie instead of cake. My mother always had several unbaked pies in our big freezer in the garage, each waiting to be called into action for some impromptu gathering. She turned them out with speed and delicious consistency.

I can't recall where I got the recipe, but the memory of my first "pie" (I use the word loosely) is painfully clear: By the time I'd finished, my tiny kitchen was awash in flour and apple scraps and full of acrid smoke, courtesy of the thing that had leaked sticky juice all over the hot oven. Devoid of moisture, my creation was dry, tough—basically inedible, even for my underfed-college-student roommates. I vowed to steer clear of pie.

Years later, during a call home to my mother, I shared my pie madness story. "Oh, Cath," she said, "pies are easy. You just need the right size pan, the right amount of fruit, a little thickener and a refrigerated crust." What??? My mother used store-bought pie dough? "Oh, sure. I used to make crust from scratch," she said, "but the refrigerated stuff is really good, and then you don't have to worry about it."

Well, talk about things that make you go "hmmm." Shortly afterward, I tried again, this time with her apple pie recipe and ready-made dough. The results were surprisingly impressive, and I've been baking pies using my mom's little shortcut ever since. In fact, I have already shared Grammy's foolproof recipe and premade crust secret with my daughter, Jess, who made a storybook-perfect apple pie for Thanksgiving last year.

My point is this: Pie-baking, and good home cooking in general, does not have to make you cry. Fun tricks here and there can help you create dishes with all the flavors of home and none of the time-consuming frustration. In this "Shortcuts" issue, our editors, Test Kitchen experts and a few wonderful home cooks like you offer a bushel of great tips and recipes to help you stretch time and money...and stress less. All these great shortcuts are listed on page 3.

Speaking of pie: At Taste of Home, we see (and taste!) a LOT of it. And we debate what exactly constitutes "pie season." Some say they're most plentiful during fall and winter holidays, while others argue the fresh fruits of summer are most likely to tempt pie bakers. In the end, we generally take the "pie all year-round" route. The foolproof reader favorites starting on page 63 will help you get your own pie game on—easily.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Taste of Home's enthusiastic team of volunteer editors from across the U.S. and Canada share recipes, cooking tips and more with our staff and online community

Crystal Jo Bruns

ILIFF, COLORADO

Is anyone in your family a picky eater?

My husband used to be picky, but I have converted him. I buy ingredients I've never used before, do some research and then play. I get inspiration from my favorite spice shop and even have a box of organic produce delivered twice a month. I never know what I'll get. Trying new things myself has helped encourage my family to try new things as well.

Crystal Jo is a stay-at-home mom. Husband Rion is a cattle feed specialist. They have two children, Braylon, 3, and Caiden, 1. Crystal Jo enjoys making bath bubbles to sell at local craft shows.

Sue Falk

EASTPOINTE, MICHIGAN

What summer dishes do you like to make?

My background is Italian. So during the summer, I opt for healthier alternatives, such as my dad's Sicilian potato salad. With a vinegar and oil base rather than mayonnaise, it can be left at room temperature, so it's great for picnics. For a lighter dessert, I choose Grandma Tocco's Creama, a type of cannoli cake. Of all the Italian recipes I have, these are two of my favorites.

Sue has three grown children, Gina, Tom and Meagan, and one grandson, Hunter. She enjoys working with her fellow Master Gardeners.

Mandy Fox

MANHATTAN, KANSAS

How do you make sure your children are eating right?

My boys love fruits and veggies, plus they drink lots of milk. Our challenging area is meat. If I find a cut they like, I incorporate it into various recipes. For instance, they really like shredded roast beef. So I make a roast on Sunday and use it throughout the week in such dishes as beef and noodles, BBQ beef sandwiches and open-face sandwiches.

Mandy, an environmental scientist, and husband Trent, a veterinary student, have two boys, Kyzer, 4-1/2, and Izaac, 2-1/2.

Sue Gronholz

BEAVER DAM, WISCONSIN

Do you cook with fresh herbs in the summer?

Yes, I grow a variety of herbs and love to cook with them. Marjoram, dill, oregano and thyme are favorites in my egg dishes, while basil, lavender and rosemary often star in marinades for grilled meats. Cinnamon basil, lemon geranium and mint make tasty syrups to stir into sun tea or fruit salads, or as a topping for pancakes, pound cake or ice cream.

Sue is a sales associate at a jewelry store and writes an herb column for a local magazine. Husband Todd is a carpenter. They have two grown children and a grandson.

Alice Shaffer

Have you been recognized in public as a field editor?

When my name first appeared in Taste of Home, I was out walking, and a gal who was mowing her lawn saw me. She shut off her mower and started waving her hands and yelling, "We have a celebrity in town!" Gregory is a small town, and people always tell me how great it is that someone from our town is in the magazine.

Alice and husband Bruce (Eddie) own a bed-and-breakfast and a pheasant hunting guide service. They also farm. When they can get away, they like to visit daughters Angela and Diana.

DEAR JANE...

Sticky notes have become a necessity in our kitchen, and for good reason: to repel refrigerator raiders. I'd put restaurant leftovers in the fridge to save for lunch the next day, only to find them missing in the morning. And when I planned on adding maraschino cherries to a recipe, I found a jar of juice but no cherries. This scenario has happened quite often in our house.

So we established a house rule: Put your name on your "treasures" with a sticky note, or they're up for grabs! This has ended the refrigerator nabbing in our household. Do you have a similar method? I'd love to hear about it.

Jane Stasik, Editorial Assistant

HOOKED ON SALMON RECIPE

Karen Allen of Mechanicsville, Maryland, is a big fan of Texas Field Editor Joan Hallford. After trying her Citrus-Marinated Salmon (June/July), Karen wrote: "This was, without exception, the best fish I have ever had in my life!" Karen took the liberty of using orange juice concentrate instead of fresh orange juice and omitted the ginger, but she still gave Joan's recipe a huge thumbs-up.

I'd love to hear from you, too. Drop me a line at DearJane@tasteofhome.com.

LOVE LETTER!

Each issue, one lucky reader will receive a TOH apron for sending in our favorite "love" letter of the month. Stacey, your apron is on its way!

GIVING THE NEEDY A TASTE OF HOME

The June/July issue of your magazine was placed in our office with a challenge: Find a recipe that will work with items we have on hand. You see, I work in the food service department of a homeless shelter. We are constantly looking for creative ways to use items that are donated to us to feed the large numbers of people in need of help.

In this issue, I found the recipe for Enchilada Lasagna and recognized the potential hit this dish would be. I made a sample dish, and everyone in the food service department gave it rave reviews. We have now added this dish to our menu.

Please extend our thanks to Charlene Griffin for her creative cooking on a budget, and let her know that many, many hungry people are enjoying her dish as well.

COLOSSAL CAKE

I made this chocolate cake (below) after seeing the Candy Explosion Cake in your April/May issue. My son had a Superhero Party, and this idea was perfect. It looked like a mountain!

FOND MEMORIES

Thank you for the Amish Sugar Cookies recipe (tasteofhome.com). It takes me back to my childhood in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, when my mom and grandmother made sugar cookies. My neighbors think they are great; they keep asking for more!

I am 73 years old and enjoy cooking. I had great coaches over the years—my two brothers-in-law were Navy chefs. My wife, Marcie, was also a great help.

Keep Taste of Home coming for folks who enjoy cooking as much as I do.

—Robert (Bobby) Hostetter
BRANSON, MISSOURI

BIG NIGHT OUT

In searching for a terrific ladies' night out, I came across an advertisement for the Taste of Home Cooking School show in Harrison, Ohio. I was incredibly excited to have a loving group of women with me—my daughter, mother-in-law and six sisters-in-law. We were entertained the entire evening with humor, helpful hints and delicious recipes. Culinary Specialist Dana Elliott was fabulous! Thank you for a terrific night out we'll never forget.

—Grace Neltner
LAKESIDE PARK, KENTUCKY

BERRY BLISS

I had to write to tell you that when I saw the Blackberry Cobbler recipe (June/July), I immediately thought of the mulberry tree brimming with berries in my backyard. I picked some mulberries and used them for this recipe. I also used Splenda, since I am diabetic and have to watch my sugar intake. The cobbler was delicious!

PLAY WITH YOUR FOOD

Split from the Ordinary

Take your next picnic from ho-hum to hoo-hah! Serve up an old standard with a new twist: Split a grilled bratwurst (or other sausage) in half and place in a banana split dish or small oval casserole. Between the two brat halves, place one heaping scoop each of macaroni salad, potato salad and coleslaw. Drizzle steak sauce and mustard over the two outer scoops. Over the center scoop, use a star tip to pipe a dollup of mashed potatoes. Pickle relish adds some color, and a cherry tomato tops it off just right.

Hats Off!

We want to hear about your cooking triumphs.

Did you finally get your kids to eat something healthy? Did you single-handedly cater dinner for 100? Maybe you finally got that soufflé to rise.

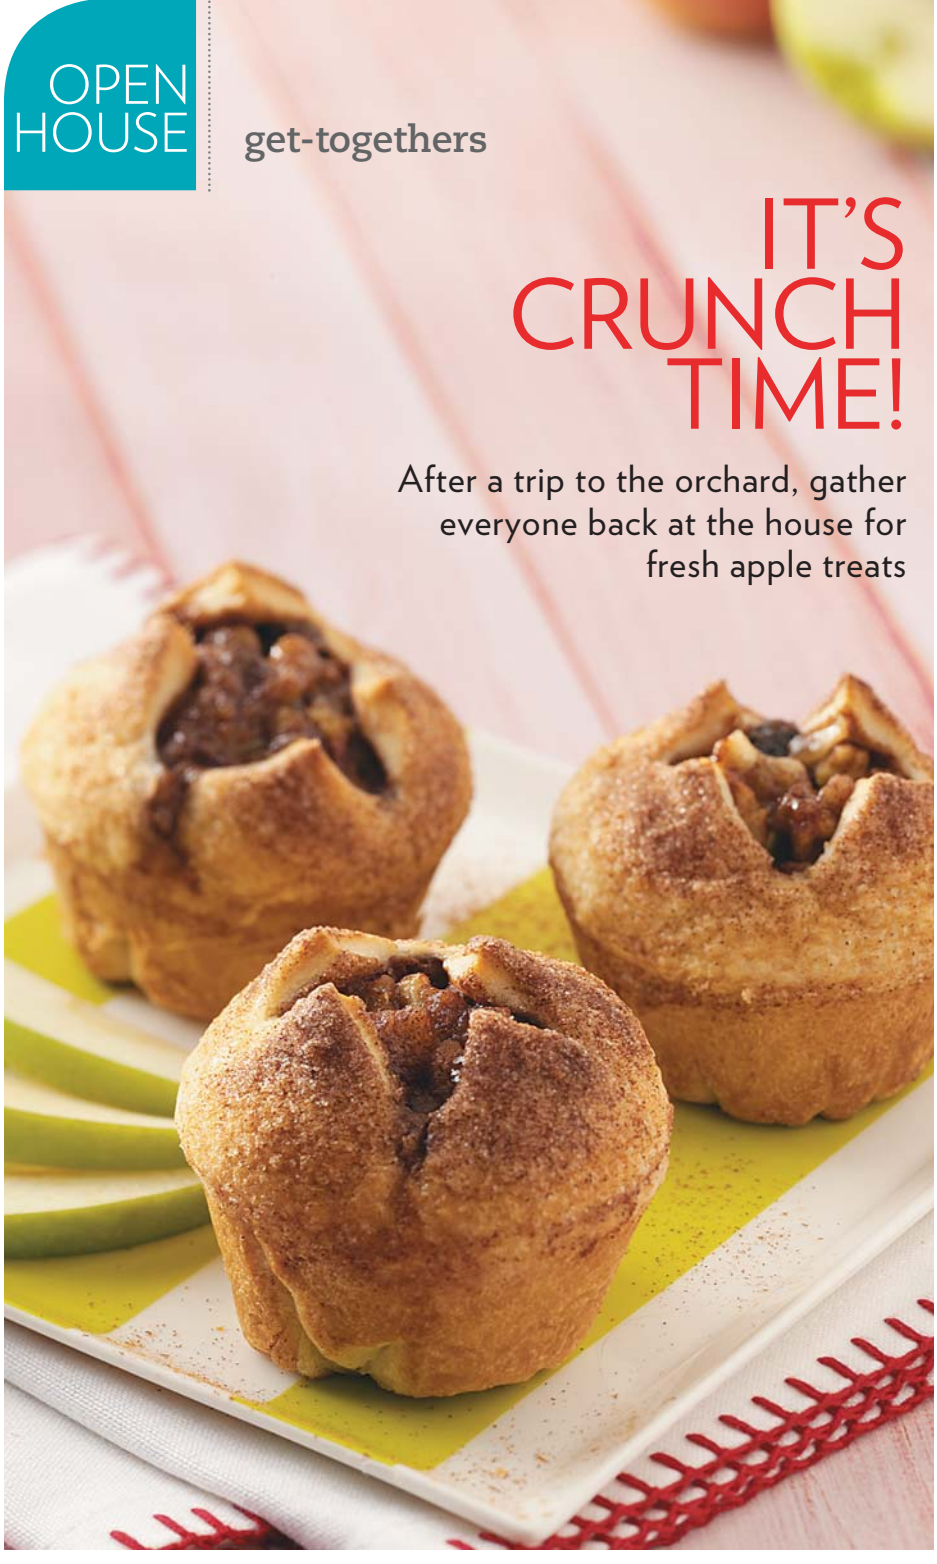
IT'S CRUNCH TIME!

After a trip to the orchard, gather everyone back at the house for fresh apple treats



crisscross apple crowns

Wake 'em up on chilly mornings with the tempting aroma of apples and cinnamon. "I love making these for breakfast. They're so easy."

Teresa Morris // LAUREL, DELAWARE

PREP TIME: 30 MIN. COOK TIME: 20 MIN.
YIELD: 8 SERVINGS

1-1/3 cups chopped peeled tart apples
1/3 cup chopped walnuts
1/3 cup raisins
1/2 cup sugar, divided
2 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
2 tsp. ground cinnamon, divided
Dash salt
1 pkg. (17.3 oz.) large refrigerated flaky biscuits
2 tsp. butter, melted

In a large microwave-safe bowl, combine the apples, walnuts, raisins, 3 Tbsp. sugar, flour, 3/4 tsp. cinnamon and salt. Microwave 2-3 minutes or until almost tender.

Flatten each biscuit into a 5-in. circle. Combine remaining sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle a rounded teaspoonful of sugar mixture over each. Top each with 1/4 cup apple mixture. Bring up edges to enclose mixture; pinch edges to seal.

Place seam side down in ungreased muffin cups. Brush tops with butter; sprinkle with remaining sugar mixture. With a sharp knife, cut an "X" in the top of each.

Bake at 350° for 18-22 minutes or until golden brown. Cool for 5 minutes before removing from pan to a wire rack.

CHOCOLATE MINT APPLE FONDUE

Combine a can of sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup chocolate chips and 10 chopped peppermint patties. Cook over low heat until melted. Serve with apple slices. Makes 2-1/2 cups.

Note: You can substitute a cup of peanut butter for the peppermint patties.

Deb Danner // DAYTON, OHIO

APPLE ANTICS!

Make your get-together more festive with a game of bobbing for apples. Just fill a tub of water with apples. With hands behind their backs, players try to catch a floating apple with their teeth. You can also put just one apple in the tub, replacing it for each new person.

IT'S IN THE BAG!

Here's a handy apple trick from Christi Ross of Grundy Center, Iowa.

"I cut apples into slices for the kids' snacks and place in a resealable plastic bag. I pour the juice from a can of pineapple over the slices (saving the pineapple for another use), seal the bag, shake to ensure all the apples are covered, then store in the fridge. The slices stay crisp for days, never turning brown or mushy."

FIT FOR ONE, FIT FOR ALL

A renovation project becomes a special gift for this family

Tony and Kathy Mongillo
TRUMBULL, CONNECTICUT

REMODELED KITCHEN WINNER

When a remodel creates a kitchen that's both stunning and functional, it deserves recognition. So said the judges when they chose Tony and Kathy Mongillo's kitchen as a winner in our Dream Kitchen contest. With a spacious floor plan, dark cherry cabinets and handicap-accessible features, the kitchen took the grand prize in the remodeled category.

Son Anthony, an avid cook, uses a wheelchair. So they knew the kitchen would need to be designed with him in mind.

"We bumped out the wall between the dining room and the kitchen to give him more room to navigate around the island," says Kathy, Anthony's stepmom. "We also indented part of the island to allow him more room at the fridge. Plus, we moved the wall in the dining area back 4 feet to give Anthony clear passage to the deck, so he can man the grill or get herbs from the garden."

With the help of a creative contractor, the Mongillos built a once-in-a-lifetime kitchen, from the durable porcelain floor tile to the double sinks.

"The kitchen is the most important part of our home," says Kathy, a registered nurse. "It's my dream kitchen because it was a gift from my husband and we planned it together. We love being in it and spending time together as a family." The family also includes daughter Cristina.

A pot-filler is a big help for making large servings of pasta on the six-burner Dacor stove. The appliances are finished in the same black glazed cherry wood as the cabinets. The contractor even added custom-designed molding.

The Mongillos were thrilled to learn their remodeled kitchen, a 4-month project, was a big winner. But their $1,000 prize money is already gone.

"We've already spent our winnings renovating the foyer," says Tony, "because Kathy was concerned that the Taste of Home cameras would catch a glimpse of our old wallpaper."

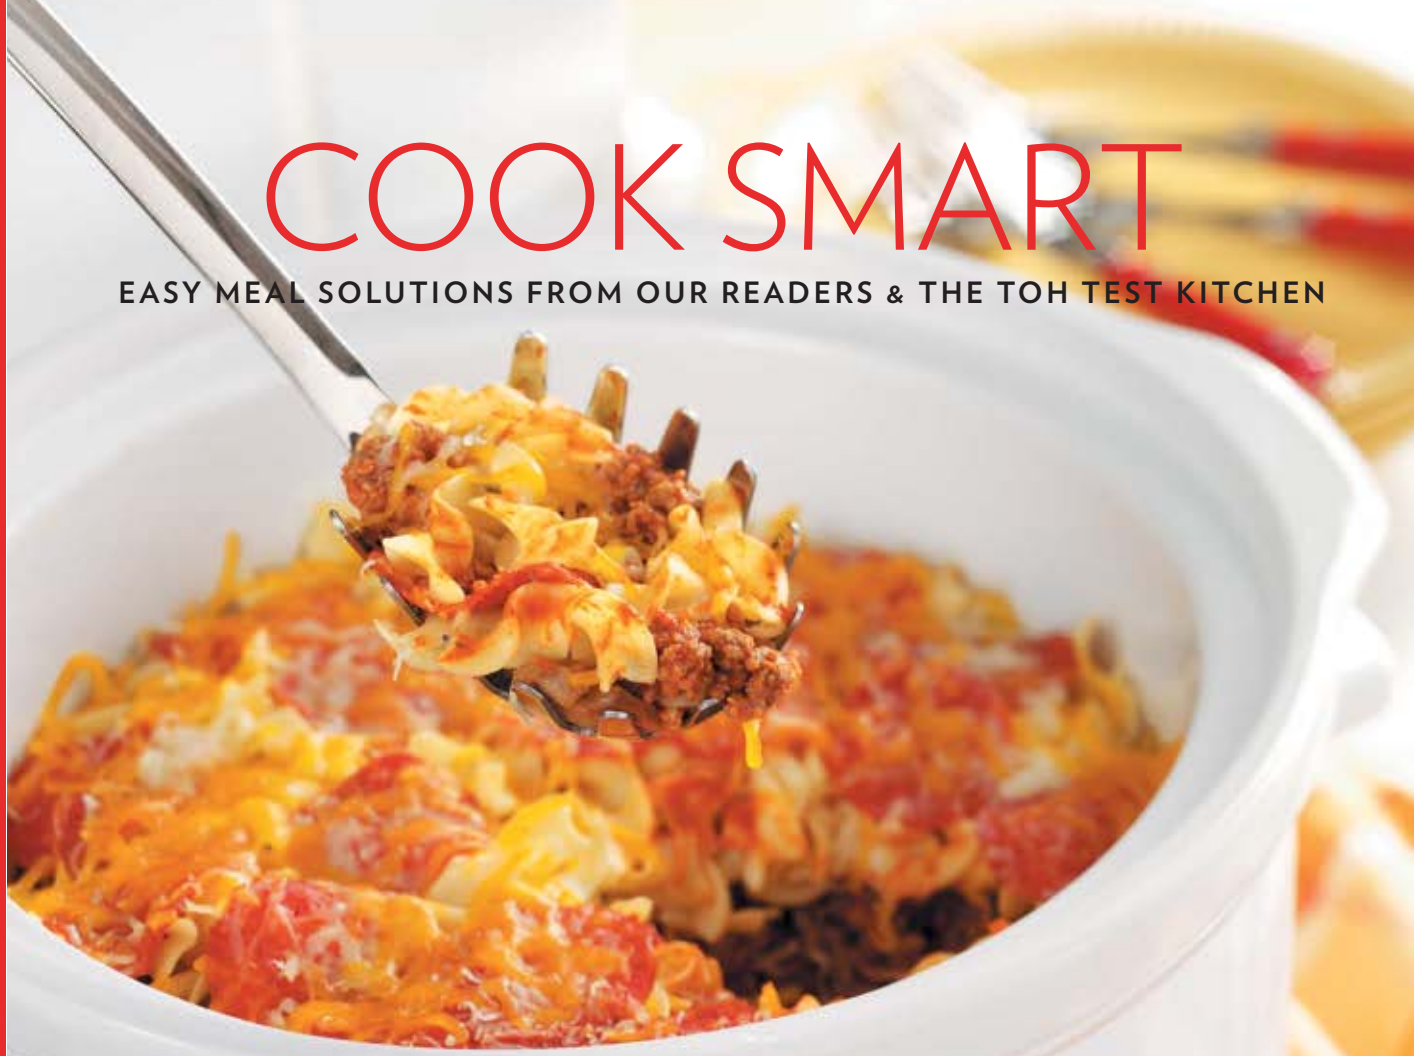
COOK SMART

EASY MEAL SOLUTIONS FROM OUR READERS & THE TOH TEST KITCHEN



SLOW AND SURE

Follow our test kitchen's advice and slow cook to perfection

HOW MUCH FOOD SHOULD I PUT IN MY SLOW COOKER?

To cook food properly and safely, fill your slow cooker at least half full, but not more than two-thirds full.

CAN I OPEN THE LID AND STIR?

It's tempting, but each time you remove the lid, you increase the cooking time by 20 to 30 minutes.

SHOULD I BROWN MEAT FIRST?

For food safety reasons, cook and drain all ground meats. But you don't need to brown large cuts of meat beforehand.

DO I NEED TO PREHEAT MY SLOW COOKER?

No, you don't. You can place all the ingredients in the crock the night before, cover and refrigerate overnight. In the morning, place the crock in the slow cooker, turn it on and go!

IS THERE AN EASY WAY TO CLEAN A SLOW COOKER?

Cleaning is a breeze if you use a slow cooker liner. Place the liner in the crock, add your ingredients and cook as you normally would. After cooking, remove the meal from the pot and simply throw away the liner.

TAKE IT SLOW For more tips on using your slow cooker, visit tasteofhome.com/slowcooker101

MORE VEGGIES, PLEASE

Experts recommend eating 5 or more servings of fruits and vegetables a day. Loaded with vitamins and minerals, vegetables are also a great way to add fiber to your diet. Sometimes, though, it's a challenge getting your recommended dose of veggies. These simple tips will help you add more veggies to every meal of the day:

- Scramble eggs with sauteed onion, sweet pepper and chopped tomatoes.
- Add shredded zucchini to homemade bread, muffins, casseroles or meat loaf.
- Dress up cold sandwiches with romaine lettuce, grated carrot, thinly sliced cucumber and tomato. Add a slice or two of tomato to grilled cheese.
- Mix chopped spinach or other greens into spaghetti sauce.
- At least 1 night a week, plan your meal around a vegetable main dish.
- Soups and stews warm you up on cool autumn days. Load them up with all kinds of veggies.

MIGRAINE SOLUTIONS

If you suffer from migraines, you probably know to avoid "trigger" foods. Among the common culprits are aged cheese, alcohol, chocolate, coffee, citrus fruits and processed foods. Skipping meals can also trigger a headache.

But did you know that some foods can help ease migraine pain? The next time you feel one coming on, start loading up on foods high in magnesium and calcium, such as spinach, kale or broccoli. Some people find relief from ginger. Try ginger ale made with real ginger, or drink cups of ginger tea. Other foods that might prove beneficial include garlic, oatmeal, fish, grapes and cayenne pepper.

SAYING NO TO DESSERT

The American Heart Association regularly issues a red heart-check mark symbol to denote grocery items that meet their heart-healthy criteria. Earlier this year, the AHA chose to remove desserts from its list of products that qualify for the symbol, as part of its battle against high-sugar diets.

The heart-check mark has been guiding consumers to heart-healthy food products since 1995. Today, it is the most trusted health symbol in the food industry. Over the past 15 years, some desserts have received the designation and can keep their symbol until their contract expires. (Manufacturers pay to use the symbol.) But the AHA has closed the dessert category to further certification.

THE DIRTY DOZEN

You don't have to be an environmentalist to be concerned about pesticide residue on produce. The 12 items that are highest in pesticides are apples, celery, cherries, grapes, lettuce, nectarines, peaches, pears, potatoes, spinach, strawberries and sweet bell peppers. Keep on eating lots of fruits and veggies, but make sure to wash them before using or buy organic.

IT'S GREEK TO YOU

Following the Mediterranean diet is almost as compelling as living on the shores of that glittering sea. Based on the eating habits of people in Greece, southern Italy and other countries bordering the Mediterranean Sea, the emphasis is on fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grains, flavorful herbs and healthy fats.

This way of eating has been shown to reduce the risk of heart disease and cancer, protect against diabetes, strokes and asthma, and even help with weight loss.

These guidelines will get you started:

- Fill your plate with greens as well as other vegetables, fruits, legumes and whole grains.
- Instead of butter, rely on extra virgin olive oil and canola oil.
- Skip the salt in favor of herbs and spices.
- Eat less red meat and more fish or shellfish.
- Limit higher-fat dairy products; for example, use yogurt instead of cream in soups.
- Snack on small portions of nuts or sprinkle on top of salads.

Patient Information
SINGULAIR® (SING-u-lair) Tablets, Chewable Tablets, and Oral Granules
Generic name: montelukast (mon-te-LOO-kast) sodium

Read this information before you start taking SINGULAIR®. Also, read the leaflet you get each time you refill SINGULAIR, since there may be new information in the leaflet since the last time you saw it. This leaflet does not take the place of talking with your doctor about your medical condition and/or your treatment.

What is SINGULAIR*?

- SINGULAIR is a medicine called a leukotriene receptor antagonist. It works by blocking substances in the body called leukotrienes. Blocking leukotrienes improves asthma and allergic rhinitis. SINGULAIR is not a steroid. Studies have shown that SINGULAIR does not affect the growth rate of children. (See the end of this leaflet for more information about asthma and allergic rhinitis.)

SINGULAIR is prescribed for the treatment of asthma, the prevention of exercise-induced asthma, and allergic rhinitis:

1. Asthma.
   SINGULAIR should be used for the long-term management of asthma in adults and children ages 12 months and older.

   Do not take SINGULAIR for the immediate relief of an asthma attack. If you get an asthma attack, you should follow the instructions your doctor gave you for treating asthma attacks.
2. Prevention of exercise-induced asthma.
   SINGULAIR is used for the prevention of exercise-induced asthma in patients 15 years of age and older.
3. Allergic Rhinitis.
   SINGULAIR is used to help control the symptoms of allergic rhinitis (sneezing, stuffy nose, runny nose, itching of the nose). SINGULAIR is used to treat seasonal allergic rhinitis (outdoor allergies that happen part of the year) in adults and children ages 2 years and older, and perennial allergic rhinitis (indoor allergies that happen all year) in adults and children ages 6 months and older.

Who should not take SINGULAIR?

Do not take SINGULAIR if you are allergic to SINGULAIR or any of its ingredients.

The active ingredient in SINGULAIR is montelukast sodium.

See the end of this leaflet for a list of all the ingredients in SINGULAIR.

What should I tell my doctor before I start taking SINGULAIR?

Tell your doctor about:

- Breast-feeding: If you are breast-feeding, SINGULAIR may be passed in your milk to your baby. You should consult your doctor before taking SINGULAIR if you are breast-feeding or intend to breast-feed.
- Medical Problems or Allergies: Talk about any medical problems or allergies you have now or had in the past.
- Other Medicines: Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, and herbal supplements. Some medicines may affect how SINGULAIR works, or SINGULAIR may affect how your other medicines work.

For adults and children 2 years of age and older with seasonal allergic rhinitis, or for adults and children 6 months of age and older with perennial allergic rhinitis:

- Take SINGULAIR once a day, at about the same time each day.
- Take SINGULAIR every day for as long as your doctor prescribes it.
- You may take SINGULAIR with food or without food.

HERBAL HANDIWORK

"Make the most of your herb garden harvest."

—Danielle Edmonds // CULINARY SPECIALIST

Summer herb gardens are a great money-saver and can provide a world of wonderful flavors with little effort. To enjoy the harvest to the fullest, try some of these easy ideas:

- Herb oil. Puree 2 handfuls of herb leaves with 1 cup of canola oil in your blender. Store the herb oil in the refrigerator for up to a few days. Use for adding flavor to chicken, seafood and vegetables, especially when grilling.
- Herb butter. Use 2 packed cups of herbs (just the leaves) and chop in a food processor. Add 1 pound of unsalted butter and mix well for 15-30 seconds. Place herb butter on a large piece of parchment paper in a long log shape. Wrap well and cover with plastic wrap. Refrigerate for up to 1 week, or store in the freezer. Use the butter for cooking vegetables, or add 1-2 tablespoons of the butter when pan frying chicken or seafood.
- Salad Fixin's. Add 1/4 cup of finely chopped herbs to a garden salad. The additional flavors will give a new spin to your favorite salad. An easy way to chop herbs is with kitchen shears.
- Make pesto. Light and delicious, it's ideal for summer. Use pesto as a sandwich spread, in homemade salad dressing, as a stuffing or on meats. Check out tasteofhome.com/pesto for pesto recipes and dishes using pesto.

BIG ON BROWNIES

SHORTCUT

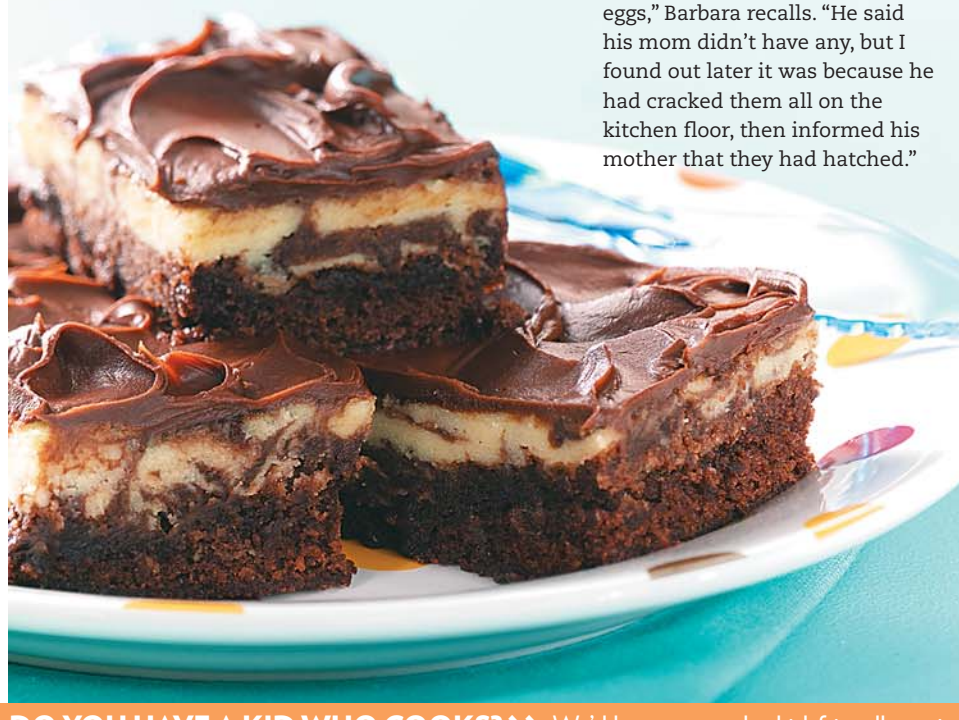
This 6-year-old loves baking chocolaty treats with his grandma

Noah Banzhof knows that when he visits his grandmother, they'll be spending time in the kitchen. They like to make cookies together, and Noah, 6, is a great help when it comes to rolling out pie crust, says his grandma, Barbara Banzhof of Muncy, Pennsylvania.

"I have 10 grandkids, and I cook with all of them," she says. "They all know the first rule: Wash your hands."

Brownies are a personal favorite of Noah's. So before he went to Grandma's house one day, he phoned to see if they could bake them.

"Noah arrived with a brownie mix, making sure that I had the eggs," Barbara recalls. "He said his mom didn't have any, but I found out later it was because he had cracked them all on the kitchen floor, then informed his mother that they had hatched."



Cheesecake Brownies

Noah loves this brownie recipe because he can help by pouring in the mix, cracking the eggs and stirring the batter.

Barbara Banzhof
MUNCY, PENNSYLVANIA

PREP: 30 MIN. BAKE: 30 MIN. + COOLING
YIELD: 3 DOZEN

1 pkg. fudge brownie mix (13-in. x 9-in. pan size)
2 pkg. (3 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
6 Tbsp. butter, softened
1/2 cup sugar
2 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
1 tsp. vanilla extract
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 can (16 oz.) chocolate frosting

Prepare brownie mix batter according to package directions. Spread 2 cups into a greased 13-in. x 9-in. baking dish; set aside.

In a small bowl, beat the cream cheese, butter, sugar, flour and vanilla until smooth. Add eggs; beat on low speed just until combined. Spread evenly over brownie batter. Top with remaining brownie batter. Cut through batter with a knife to swirl.

Bake at 350° for 28-32 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center comes out with moist crumbs (brownies may appear moist). Cool completely on a wire rack. Spread frosting over brownies.

SEASONED FOR SUCCESS

Her slow-cooked tamale pie wins family's raves and judges' praise

Jill Pokrivka's kids love Mexican food, and Jill loves to cook. So it seems only natural that she would create a savory main dish full of the flavors that her youngsters enjoy.

The result is Slow Cooker Tamale Pie, now a favorite of hubby Martin, an electrical engineer, and their three children. It was a favorite of our judges, too, who awarded Jill the Grand Prize of $500 in our recent Slow Cooker contest.

"This is a relatively new recipe I adapted from one I used to make before we had kids," says Jill from her home in York, Pennsylvania. "It was a great way to get the Mexican flavors they love in a simple, prepare-ahead meal.

"Using the slow cooker definitely helps with our busy schedule. There's nothing better than having a home-cooked meal ready to serve when you're trying to do multiple things."

Jill, who is a teacher's aide at a local elementary school, relies on her slow cooker for anything from soup to casseroles to meatballs and sauce.

"I have loved to cook since I was a kid; I cooked with both my grandmother and my mother," she says. "I've always liked to thumb through cookbooks and cooking magazines to see what I wanted to try. It was a great way to break out of any cooking, or eating, comfort zone."

Now, the kids—Kayleigh, 11; Rick, 9; and Thomas, 5—are following in Jill's footsteps. "All three like to help in the kitchen. My older two can even do some things by themselves. They've entered a few kids' cooking contests at our local fair and have won some prizes, too."

Who knows? Jill might just be grooming three more Taste of Home prize-winners.

JILL'S TIP

"Feel free to play around with this recipe—change some seasonings to fit your tastes, make it mild or spicy and substitute some ingredients for others you like."

easy as pie

I've always been amazed by those perfect, blue-ribbon pies at the state fair. But the thought of rolling out dough and cutting lattice strips intimidated me.

So we invited Josie Bocheck (below left) of Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, to our headquarters to teach me the pie-making skills she's been honing since childhood. Josie, by the way, won a blue ribbon at the Door County Fair for her Fresh Cherry Pie (June/July 2006 Taste of Home).

Josie felt right at home in our test kitchen. As we worked, little gems of pie-making wisdom came up in our conversation. Forget costly cherry pitters, she advised. Josie, who buys cherries at an orchard, simply pushes a plastic straw through the centers to pit them without squashing them. Brilliant!

As we started rolling the dough, Josie reminded me, "Work the dough as little as possible, otherwise it gets tough. That's what they taught me in high school." I gingerly rolled out the dough, under Josie's watchful eye.

Assembling the lattice worried me the most. To my surprise, it was like putting together a simple puzzle. We brushed water on the edges of the dough to help the lattice adhere to the bottom crust, and to keep the edges from getting too brown. And Josie showed me how to pinch the edges into those cute little triangles as a finishing touch.

As the pie came out of the oven, it occurred to me that an expertly made pie had never been beyond my abilities. I just needed someone like Josie to show me that.

SHORTCUT

Create satisfying meals in minutes by dressing up a convenient box of mac & cheese

Mac & cheese is one of those comfort foods almost everybody craves. And the boxed mix makes it easy to enjoy almost immediately.

But not everyone stirs it up and eats it as is. Ask people what they add to boxed mac & cheese, and you'll get a grocery cart full of answers. Kids like tossing on cut-up hot dogs. Moms like to sneak in good-for-you veggies, such as broccoli or tomatoes. Some folks add whatever leftovers they find in the fridge. Others rely on actual recipes, such as those at right. Everyone seems to have a favorite way to add a new dimension to this popular convenience food.

We asked fans of our Taste of Home Facebook page what they like to add to a box of mac & cheese, and the options ran the gamut from ham and extra cheese to chipotle peppers and crab meat. And talk about unique combinations! How about mac & cheese combined with tuna, cream of chicken soup, canned mushrooms, frozen peas, dried onions and Mexican-blend shredded cheese, all topped with French-fried onion rings?

Tallying up all the responses, we found that tuna is, indeed, the favorite add-in. The complete Top 10 is below. But the possibilities for your personal mac & cheese creation are endless!

CELEBRATING THE PEOPLE AROUND THE TASTE OF HOME TABLE

AFRICAN ADVENTURE

Brownies were a real treat for her friends in Tanzania—and no easy feat to make

When I left to spend 3 months in East Africa a couple years ago, my friends bet on how long I could stay out of the kitchen. I quickly discovered that, when I wasn't at work (volunteering at a juvenile detention center), the best way to improve my Swahili was to spend time with the workers hand-peeling mountains of garlic and chopping carrots, squash and other vegetables. Our kitchen was outdoors, and I loved watching the skilled cooks prepare all of the wonderful meals with none of the gadgets we seem to need—potato peelers, measuring cups, etc.

It's uncommon to serve desserts or sweets in that area, but making brownies seemed like the best way to repay my friends who helped me recover from malaria. I got permission to use the head cook's kitchen, and since I didn't have a recipe, I found one at tasteofhome.com. Then I tried to find ingredients.

Grocery stores there are very limited, and because they've never heard of foods like chocolate chips and chocolate baking squares, I had to make several substitutions. Since most of the ingredients were imported, it cost me $27 to make two pans of brownies.

PEORIA, ILLINOIS

Back in the kitchen, I put on an apron and crossed my fingers. Without any measuring spoons, spatulas and so on, I had to improvise. I measured with a coffee mug and hand-kneaded the coarse sugar into the butter. I stirred in instant coffee granules and bits of a caramel-like candy they call toffee. With no temperature gauge on the oven, I had to watch the brownies closely.

After they cooled, I took a small bite to make sure they were OK, then offered one to the head chef. I'll never forget his look of absolute bliss! I made the brownies, at his request, two more times that summer and left a copy of the Taste of Home recipe with him when I left. It's a memory I'll treasure forever.

UNWRITTEN HISTORY

Her mom doesn't need recipes to pass on the family's flavorful traditions

"For as long as I can remember, my mom, Bertha Meese, has spent most of her time in the kitchen, preparing meals for family, friends, business associates and others. When my brother Billy and I were kids, we sat down to her home-cooked dinners every night. Everything she made was delicious.

Good cooking has been passed down in our family from generation to generation. My grandma and great-grandma shared their skills with Mom and then me. I hope to pass on what I've learned to my son and two daughters.

There is one problem: Few things Mom makes even have a recipe. She cooks from scratch, using a pinch of this and a dash of that, with a smattering of several other ingredients thrown in. That makes my job as a Taste of Home Field Editor harder because, before sending in a recipe, I have to make it, writing down each ingredient and step along the way.

Although my brother and I have our own families, we make time to get together with Mom; our dad, Bill; and our kids for meals, whether it's a special occasion or an evening by a campfire. We all live close by, on land that's been in our family for more than 100 years. My brother's house is on one side of Mom and Dad, and I am on the other side, just across the road. Our children know that Grandma's house is a great place to go for a good meal. Sometimes Billy and I find out that they have eaten at home but have also eaten at our parents' house!

Mom's cooking is popular with the square dance crowd, too. My parents own a dance hall, and my dad, who's an electrician, is also a square dance caller. So at least twice a month, Mom throws together a new dish for a potluck at the hall. She's always asked for her recipe, and I have to laugh because I know she has no clue what exactly she used to make it!

The meal here wins rave reviews with the family—and I actually have the recipes! I hope you'll pass them down in your family, too."

stirring things up

For this Canadian Field Editor, baking provides relaxation and quality time with the kids

Life here in Nova Scotia is pretty laid-back, but there's never a shortage of things to do. During the summer, you can go to a festival just about every weekend. Many people take their vacations in July to attend the Pictou (County) Lobster Carnival. Because Craig and I work Monday through Friday, we really look forward to our weekends. Craig likes to golf and barbecue. Our daughters, Lauren and Regan, enjoy beachcombing for shells, rocks and beach glass.

On weekends, I stockpile our freezer with meals and goodies for the week ahead and often put supper in the slow cooker on Sunday morning. I use produce that's in season and freeze fresh berries to use during the winter.

I find baking to be a great stress reliever and like to share what I make with others. I bake anything and everything, and love to try new recipes—so it's a good thing I work out about 6 days a week!

KITCHEN HELPERS

Lauren and Regan must have baking in their genes, too, because every time I pull out my trusty mixer, they're by my side, measuring, mixing and tasting. They especially like making Butterhorns, which my mom taught me to make when I was a young girl.

Fall has to be my absolute favorite time of year. The air is crisp and cool, and the colors paint such beautiful pictures. I look forward to baking more muffins and comfort foods such as crisps and casseroles this fall, especially since we recently renovated our kitchen. Now I love baking and cooking even more!

Kelly Kirby is a service supervisor for an insurance company. Her husband, Craig, is the director of national accounting services for a major grocery chain. Regan is 3-1/2, and Lauren will turn 7 in September.

// BUTTERHORNS

PREP: 35 MIN. + RISING BAKE: 10 MIN.
YIELD: 2 DOZEN

- 1 Tbsp. active dry yeast
- 1 tsp. plus 1/3 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup warm water (110° to 115°)
- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup warm 2% milk (110° to 115°)
- 1 egg
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 4 cups all-purpose flour

In a large bowl, dissolve yeast and 1 tsp. sugar in warm water. Add the butter, milk, egg, salt, remaining sugar and 2 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in enough remaining flour to form a soft dough.

Turn onto a floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic, about 6-8 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, turning once to grease the top. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Turn onto a lightly floured surface; divide in half. Roll each portion into a 12-in. circle; cut each circle into 12 wedges. Roll up wedges from the wide end and place point side down 2 in. apart on greased baking sheets. Curve ends to form crescents.

Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake at 350° for 10-12 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans to wire racks.

Minooka, Illinois

BAKING A DIFFERENCE

At age 10, this baker is having an impact well beyond her years

When Sabrina Shafer realized how many of her friends' parents had lost their jobs and couldn't afford to live in the area any longer, she decided to do something for her community of Minooka, Illinois.

Because Sabrina loves to bake, the 10-year-old began selling cookies (including the Coconut Macaroons below) on Saturday mornings at the local farmers market. She bakes all day Friday during the summer and gets up at 4 a.m. Saturday to finish her baking. Then, with the help of her brother Justin, Sabrina sets up her stand at 7 a.m.

Proceeds go to the local food pantry. Sabrina also donates to the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance Burn Camp.

"The food pantry helps 87 families weekly, and I figured that is a good place to start helping," says Sabrina. "The burn camp allows children who have been badly burned to spend time with other children like them. I learned about it from a firefighter at my school."

In addition to the farmers market, Sabrina has held bake sales to raise money for Thanksgiving dinners for local families and Christmas presents for needy area children, often using her allowance to buy extra supplies. To date, she has raised about $1,500.

This is one fifth-grader who knows the importance of helping out wherever you can.

"I go to school here, my friends live here and my community is important to me," Sabrina says. "If I help the families in my community, even if it's only through a bake sale, maybe other people will see how important it is to help others. Maybe then we will all be OK, and the goodness will spread to other towns."
